CHAMPION BEGINS GRADUAL HALT IN TRAINING PROGRAM

Dempsey Will Celebrate 26th Birthday Today With Complete Rest.

By Associated Press: ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 23.—After plans had been made Thursday to have Jack Dempsey lay off and announcement was made that the public would not be admitted to the cage, the world's heavyweight champion, was compelled to get into the gymnasium clothes in the afternoon to satisfy a crowd of about 1,000 persons who were anxious to pay 50 cents to see Dempsey work the punching bags for 30 minutes. "Looks like you'll have to work a bit after all," said Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, when he saw the crowd camped about the entrance to the field. Dempsey exhibited his famous shift and other blows on the inflated bags for four three-minute rounds and then hopped into the ring for a two-round session with the 60-pound felt-stuffed bag suspended from the rafters in the center of the ring. He pounded the swinging target for six minutes with astonishing power, sending it flying back six or seven feet with wicked straight lefts and rights. The workout was vigorous and satisfying to the big crowd. Taper Off Next Week. Manager Kearns announced last night that Kid Norfolk, the negro light-weight, and other sparring partners expected in camp to assist getting Dempsey into a fine fighting edge, would not be needed. Dempsey had progressed so rapidly in his training, Kearns said, that he will begin to taper off next week instead of continuing hard work with the gloves. Today Dempsey will celebrate his 26th birthday with a complete rest. He will box Saturday and Sunday and then only exhibit himself in a light workout on Monday. Just enough exercise to loosen up his muscles will be taken on Thursday. The champion will not do any training on Friday. "We will move over to Jersey City Friday night to tame the Frenchman Saturday," Kearns added.

JONES GOES GOOD
By Associated Press: INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 23.—John Paul Jones had Toledo battle until he let down in the ninth inning Thursday with the game far out of reach of the visitors and Indianapolis won the final of the series 2 to 4. Only four scattered hits were made off Jones until the final frame when Toledo counted three times on four singles. Ayres was hit hard by the home team. Score: Toledo, 101 000 002—4 8 3 Ayres and Curtain; Jones and Henline.

Tom Andrews Says Dempsey Will Win in Four Rounds

By United Press: PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Tom Andrews, promoter and referee, says this of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight: "Dempsey will win if he is in condition. I have seen both, and Dempsey is far superior—a real fighter. It is ridiculous to say the champion is not fast. He is a fast, hard hitting machine. If the fight is open I expect to see Dempsey win in four or five rounds. If one of the two takes the defensive, the outcome may be different."

Astrologer Says Georges Will See Stars July 2

By United Press: NEW YORK, June 23.—The stars say that Georges Carpentier will see stars on the afternoon of July 2. Take the word of Prof. Gustave Myers, Hoboken astrologer, for it: "I erected a chart of the heavens on the birthday of Jack Dempsey and also on Georges Carpentier and I have come to the conclusion that Dempsey will win by a knockout."

Meehan's Story About Dempsey

Willie Meehan, San Francisco heavyweight, has been in the ring with Jack Dempsey for 20 rounds of fighting—the longest any man ever stayed with the man-killer from San Luis Valley, Colorado. Fred Winsor, present manager of Meehan, was the first boxer to start Dempsey up the ladder titlewards. Meehan tells readers of The News-Times in his own words of how he weathered those battles. The Dempsey I beat in our last fight was a far different fighter than the man I met the first time. He had become ring smart. But there was one thing about him which was the same—his bone-crushing punches. He came to Frisco in 1918, fresh from a long string of quick knockouts. Everybody said: "Here's where Willie gets his." I made up my mind before the fight if he knocked me out I'd quit the ring. But he didn't put me away. I will never forget one punch he gave me, though, as long as I live. It jarred me so I wasn't right for two months afterward. Some day I'll tell the world what that blow was. It was like dynamite. I think that when Dempsey measured me, landed his knockout wallop and saw that I didn't drop as his other opponents had been doing, it took the heart out of him and he let me win on points. Take it from Willie from Frisco that Jack can sock harder than any heavyweight I ever met. I've boxed them all but Levinsky. He'll get Carpentier inside of four rounds. A body punch and a chin hook will cause the crash-up. Winsor and I are close personal friends of the champ—I in spite of the fact that he hit me hard enough to kill me and Winsor regardless of his split with him. Will we be at the fight? Does a bumble bee bumble?

CHALLENGER LANDS THREE KNOCKDOWNS AGAINST PARTNERS

By Associated Press: MANHASSET, N. Y., June 23.—Loosening up a wee bit in what was announced as his last public workout before his fight with Dempsey, Georges Carpentier felled three sparring partners Thursday afternoon.

The largest crowd that has yet attended a workout here gathered early on the front lawn. There were numerous faces known in the sporting and theatrical world and several Frenchmen who comprise the advance guard of more than 400 who are coming from Georges' native land to see the fight. The challenger was busy shaking hands until long before 3 o'clock appeared in the gymnasium at 3:55. Tarrying only a short time at the bags, he vaulted into the ring and said: "Let's go."

Three New Partners. Came then three new sparring partners, two of whom were said to have taken part in the "mystery" workout behind the barn Wednesday morning. First was Dave Rose, a welterweight from Brooklyn. He became too bold and waded into Carpentier. He was sent to the floor with a right hook after half a minute of fighting. Georges permitted him to come back, then punished him some more.

For the second round appeared Dave Rosenberg, the middleweight who lost the decision in a 12-round bout with Mike Gibbons in Brooklyn on May 30. Rosenberg's jaw felt the challenger's right and he fell to the ring floor. Carpentier assisted him to his feet, then started both hands working to his jaw and body. He had Rosenberg so groggy that Manager Descamps called a halt. "Documant!" shouted Descamps, which in good old American means: "Easy, easy." Carpentier smiled and obeyed.

Floors Light-Heavy Twice. After Rosenberg, Chris Arnold, a light heavyweight, jumped through the ropes. Chris was a mark for the Frenchman and caved in under his right on two occasions. Arnold was bleeding at the nose and mouth and Joe Jeannette was called to replace him. Joe and Georges boxed tamely for a round and the workout was over. Then Manager Descamps announced through one of the newspapers that the mates would be closed to all until after July 2. Paul Journee did not show himself during the afternoon, and Italian Joe Gans, it was announced, will not be used again. One of the camp attaches said an effort was being made to employ some real heavyweights for the work to come next week.

They told that California congressman who wanted to protect prunes that he was too full of his subject.

UNFAIR TO JUDGE CARP'S CHANCE BY JOURNEE'S DEFEAT

By JAMES J. CORBETT. NEW YORK, June 23.—Attempts to size up Georges Carpentier by the showing of any of his sparring partners are unfair to the French champion as I see it. I noticed where the Journee-Weinert bout was mentioned in this connection, but I can't see for the life of me why Journee's showing should have anything to do with Carpentier or his chances against Dempsey. Carpentier can stop Journee with one punch and any time he wants to.

He simply uses the big fellow to rough it with him. He lets Journee and all the rest of his sparring mates hammer him about the ring for he needs that kind of work.

Jeannette Best Partner. "If he didn't want Journee to hit him, take it from me, the big fellow wouldn't be able to lay a glove on Georges. Joe Jeannette is the only one of Carpentier's sparring mates who has class enough to begin to make the Frenchman use his ring science but you never see this done in Georges' public workouts, because it isn't his idea. Carpentier feels that he has been subjected to a lot of unjust criticism because of his system of training and he has had this impression for so long a time that he went into his shell farther than ever. That's one reason why he has constantly refused to show more than a flash of his real ability.

The slight rest of two days was a welcome one to Carpentier but with some nine days remaining between now and the date when he will step into the ring at Jersey City, the French title holder will whip things up. I got the idea of what Georges intends to do from a remark dropped inadvertently by Joe Jeannette yesterday.

"Ben takin' it easy for a couple of days," said Jeannette, "but George will give us plenty to do from now on."
